November 23, in the John Marshall High School.

Miss Coleman, who is a graduate of the Emerson College of Oratory, Boston, has a sympathetic, unaffected manner, her interpretations are genuine and she is undoubtedly an artist. Miss Coleman has given a number of readings elsewhere, and has always been successful in winning from her audience enthusiastic applause and interest.

German on Wednesday.

One of the attractive features of Thanksgiving week will be a German to be given in the ballroom of the Jefferson Hotel on Tuesday evening, November 23, by Miss Martha Gold. The dance promises to be a very enjoyable affair and an attractive addition to the holiday festivities.

Informal Reception.

Miss Mildred Gibson entertained informally at her home, 15 East Clay Street, on Tuesday evening from 9 to 11 o'clock, in honor of her cousin, Charles Frisco, Chief of Baltimore. Miss Gibson and her mother, Mrs. W. Gibson, received the guests, and the house was prettily decorated in yellow and white chrysanthemums and yellow shaded lamps.

Those present were: Misses Marie Anderson, Sadie Berser, Lottie May Hurt, Norma Gibson, Inez Berser, Myrtle Peace, Hazel Howard, Julia Ryan, Messrs. Stephen Kell, Bernard Ayers, Clyde Bartoot, A. Renick, T. Davidson, James Shelton, and the chaperons were Mrs. Gibson and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Tucker.

Will Meet on Wednesday.

The Confederate Memorial Literary Society will meet in the Confederate Museum on Wednesday morning, November 24, at 11 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

Annual Social.

St. John's Circle of King's Daughters will hold their annual social meeting on Monday afternoon between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Ellyson, 1644 West Grace Street. All members are expected to be present and bring a friend.

Mrs. Clarence C. Burton will be present and address the ladies, her subject being "Echoes of the Hampton Convention." After a short business session music and literary selections will be rendered and refreshments served.

Hop at Belvidere.

Another dance to be given on Wednesday, November 24, will take place at Belvidere Hall at 9 o'clock. Arrangements are in the hands of N. W. Richardson and Charles M. Frazier, and promises to be a very delightful affair.

Normant-Sheffer.

Asbury Place Methodist Church was the scene of a very beautiful wedding Thursday morning at 11 o'clock, when Miss Marie Gertrude Sheffer became the bride of Doran Ralph Normant, Jr., of this city, the Rev. L. T. Williams officiating. The church was profusely decorated with palms and lighted candles.

Mrs. John L. McKee, president of the organ, and "O Promise Me" was softly rendered during the ceremony. Ushers included Rollins Ammons, Kendell Ferguson, Russell Proctor, Richard Ayers, Edmond Massie and Louis O'Brien. The bride entered on the arm of the groom. She was handsomely gowned in a traveling suit of navy blue chiffon, broadcloth, with hat and gloves to match, and carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Normant left for a Northern tour, after which they will be at home to their friends at 217 Grove Avenue.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Rison announce the engagement of their daughter, Carrie Goodwin, to Russell Christian Proctor, the marriage to take place Wednesday morning, December 15, in Grace Street Presbyterian Church.

In and Out of Town.

Mrs. W. A. Clifton, of Manchester, left on Wednesday for an extended Northern trip.

Fred A. Coleman and his daughter, Miss Dorothy Coleman, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., are the guests of Mrs. Charles W. Farmer, on Floyd Avenue.

Rev. T. C. Darst, of this city, is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Terry Martin, in Salem, Va.

Paul Woodfin, who acted as best man at the Wright-Cutcliffe wedding, has returned to his home in Waynesboro.

D. U. Head, of 1551 West Main Street, who had his hand amputated at the Virginia Hospital last week, is still critically ill.

Robert Spencer, of this city, has been spending several days in Roanoke.

Miss Emilie Grace Marriott will leave this week for Norfolk to attend the wedding of her cousin, Miss Mary Nash Saunders.

Miss Sarah Robertson, Miss Lucy Powles, Miss Emily Pancake and Stuart Robertson, of Staunton, were among the guests at the Senbrook-Fauntleroy wedding in Washington.

Our Inner-Player Pianos Solve the Xmas Gift Question

The problem of Christmas giving is solved by the introduction of our Inner-Player Piano.

Now, anyone who has one of our Inner-Player Pianos can produce music satisfactory even to the exacting critic, and that without any technical music knowledge or training.

No other player device is like this one. No other has the special features which enable you easily to obtain results like those of the skilled pianist.

It is not necessary, therefore, to accept an instrument from which you get "mechanical music," because you can buy one of our Inner-Player Pianos and be assured of complete satisfaction.

No instruments of this type except those made by The Cable Company are equipped with the Inner-Player. Therefore, be careful not to assume that any "player-piano" is an Inner-Player Piano. The name as well as the mechanism is exclusive to these instruments.

If you are a prospective buyer of a player piano it will interest you to visit our salesrooms.

Let us demonstrate the truth of our statement that the Inner-Player gives you control over the musical expression. Let us show you the use of the Transposing device, the Miniature Keyboard, the Solo-Aid and other patented features which make this mechanism more efficient than any other device used for a similar purpose.

You can prove it easily with one of the Inner-Player Pianos which will be placed at your disposal any time you may wish to come.

The prices of these instruments range from $550 to $1,800. We sell them on easy terms.

Mrs. J. S. Knox, Jr., and Misses Jean Bayly and Elizabeth Knox are at 812 West Grace Street for the winter.

Raleigh Social News

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

RALEIGH, N. C., November 20.—Social interest in Raleigh the past week centered in the Andrews-Young wedding at the First Presbyterian Church Wednesday evening, when Miss Mabel Young, daughter of Hon. James H. Young, State Commissioner of Insurance, and early one of the most accomplished and esteemed young women in North Carolina society, became the bride of Major John H. Andrews, son of Colonel A. B. Andrews, first vice-president of the Southern Railway Company, and himself a valued official in the division freight department. An audience in representative of the culture and social life of the city probably never assembled for a wedding in Raleigh, and there were quite a number of out of town guests, including Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Thorpe, Rocky Mount; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Marks, Montgomery, Ala.; W. A. Hunt, Mrs. D. V. Cooper, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John D. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Cooper, Mrs. Fannie Perry, Mrs. Mary Perry and Miss Julia Cooper, Henderson; C. W. Young, Norfolk; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Johnston, Richmond, and Miss Lula Robertson, Charlotte.

For the wedding ceremony the church decorations were especially beautiful, striking features being masses of luxuriant palms and magnificent yellow chrysanthemums, as a central feature many candles adding a soft glow that needed only the assembling of the superb ladies of the wedding party to complete the surpassingly beautiful marriage scene.

The bridesmaids were each attired in white lace over satin, trimmed with princess lace and satin roses, with gold bandeaus in hair and carrying splendid golden wedding chrysanthemums. The dresses of the first bridesmaids, Misses Annie and Fannie Young, being touched with cloth of gold. The other bridesmaids were Miss Leah Perry, Henderson; Miss Genevieve Cooper, Henderson; Miss Margaret Boylan, Raleigh; and Miss Elsie Haywood, Raleigh. The dame of honor was Mrs. H. R. Thorpe, Rocky Mount, sister of the bride, her costume being of duchesse satin, draped effect, trimmed in hand-embroidery and gold sequins. Her flowers were also golden wedding chrysanthemums. The groomsmen were W. H. Maslin, Winston-Salem; Frank Miller, Goldsboro; Sidney W. Minor, Durham; Dr. Joel Whitaker, John B. Stronach and Albert L. Cox, Raleigh. The best man was Graham Andrews, younger brother of the bridegroom. The bride, accompanied and away by her father, was attired in an exquisite costume of duchesse satin, trimmed in real lace and hand-embroidered with seed pearls, the gown being designed with full court train. In the veil was a magnificent diamond pin, an heirloom of the family. She wore also a diamond bracelet, the gift of the bridegroom. Her flowers were a lovely shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Following the wedding ceremony at the church, there was a reception to the members of the two families and the bridal party at the Young home on North Person Street. That was a fitting sequel in brilliancy and social interest to the wedding ensemble. Here the decorations were also in yellow and white, superb yellow chrysanthemums being a striking feature. Two rooms were required to lay out the wedding gifts, surpassingly handsome and numerous. Major and Mrs. Andrews left on the midnight train for a trip North. They will be at home after December 2.

There was a delightful supper given Tuesday evening in one of the private dining-rooms of the Gilchrist Cafe by Major John H. Andrews to the groomsmen to take part in the ceremony for his marriage to Miss Mabel Young, Thursday evening. The supper was followed by a rehearsal of the ceremony at the church.

A home wedding of special interest was on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Harrison on College Street, when their daughter, Miss Evelyn Douglas Harrison, and John Miller Monte, Jr., popular young people of this city, were united in marriage by Dr. W. McC. White, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, officiating. Miss Sadie Harrison was maid of honor, and John Evans best man. Mr. and Mrs. Monte will be at home in this city after a trip to Richmond, Washington, Baltimore and other places of interest North.

Oxford Social News.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

OXFORD, N. C., November 20.—The prospect for a gay social season has never been greater in Oxford. Already there is hardly a day of the week that does not call forth the society element of the town.

On Wednesday Mrs. E. H. Crummett, on her house guest, Mrs. Randolph Marshall, of Lynchburg, Va. The house was beautifully decorated in chrysanthemums. Punch was served in the rear of the hall by Mrs. P. H. Montgomery and Mrs. J. C. Camarero. After the game, delicious refreshments in the color scheme of green and white were served.

Mrs. P. H. Montgomery was hostess on Thursday afternoon to a party of friends, the guest of honor being Mrs. Randolph Marshall.

Miss Maie Carbutt gave a very unique affair Monday night. The guests were invited to a village school, and went in costume for the occasion, some with their buckets of lunch. Each carried out her idea of what the school was in the days of yore, making it as ridiculous as possible.

Mrs. J. W. Long gave a beautiful dinner party on Thursday evening. Covers were laid for ten. The decorations were in red and white and were carried throughout the dinner.

Mrs. Louis de la Croix has returned from an extended Northern trip, where she has been visiting friends.

J. T. Britt, who has been ill at his home on College Street, is so far recovered as to be able to leave for a visit to his daughter in New York City. He will be followed in a few days by his wife, and they expect to spend the winter in New York.

Crowds Gathering at Pinehurst

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

PINEHURST, N. C., November 20.—Although the cottagers have been gathering for some weeks past, the season's formal commencement is marked by the opening of the Holly Inn, inaugurating as it does, the usual social pleasures and sports, and many visitors are thus early gathered, some of the old friends to remain until spring. Among the early comers are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Cheek, Miss Ethel Cheek and R. M. Hamilton, of New York; Mrs. A. E. Dennis and Miss Jenkins, of Boonton, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. John G. Nicholson, of New Bedford; Mr. and Mrs. Leigham Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. W. Harold Smith and Dr. Linton Smith, of Wilmington, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Tracy, of South Coventry, Conn.; John B. Bowen, of Philadelphia, and John R. Goodall, of St. Louis; a big list looked for the week to come and a household assured for Thanksgiving week. The summer has been one of accomplishment of which there are pleasing indications everywhere, most noticeable being the extension of the private cottage colony in the new winter homes of Mr. and Mrs. Tyler L. Redfield, of New York, and Mrs. C. A. Sinclair, of Boston. Prophetic of the possibilities of small country estates just outside the village is the Redfield home; the plan also calling for grounds which form a fitting setting for the building itself, and blend harmoniously with the surrounding landscape. The architecture is sturdy in its character, broad and low in effect, with wide porches and finished in stucco; delightful within and without. Mrs. Sinclair's home on the Carolina vista within the village adds much to the attractiveness of the outlook from the hotel and to that section of the village. The building is a gem, in mission style, with bright roofs of red tile and stucco walls; its interior arrangement charming. Frederick Bruce, of New York, has laid out a quaint Southern garden around the Oaks, and Mr. and Mrs. George F. Blake, of Worcester, have made an important addition to the Rose. The extensive grounds around the picturesque log cabin bungalow of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Spring, of Boston, have been greatly improved, and elsewhere there are marked improvements and changes.

The good roads movement has made wonderful progress during the past five months through the opening of the Capital Highway Association route to the South, the specially interesting local feature being the fact that a very comfortable, automobile route will be opened from Pinehurst to Camden, Columbia, Alken and Augusta, very shortly. Nearby points of interest have also been made accessible by the excellent local highways, which now interlace the section with Pinehurst at their centre.

Attention to roadways, parks and shrubbery and general repainting have added much to the beauty of the village. A model dairy plant has been installed at the dairy farm, the market garden enlarged, the equipment of the power plant increased, special care given to the golf course and excellent results obtained in connection with other important work which has rounded out a busy season here.
